

IN THE ABSTRACT:

An LPG fuel tank for motor vehicles is provided, inside, with a support, on which there can be installed
5 in a rapid way a pump assembly including a supply pump and the corresponding electric actuating motor. Preferably, the support is also used for installing a level-sensor assembly within the tank.

(Figure 2)